

People On The Move

John Atkinson, executive vice president, managing director, and Mary Lynn Curran, vice president, clinical risk management, of Chicago-based Hilb Rogal & Hobbs Co., have been appointed to serve on the faculty of the University of Maryland, Baltimore County (UMBC), Erickson School of Aging Studies. At press time, Atkinson and Curran had just completed an Erickson School Executive Education Program, located on the campus of UMBC. As instructors during the four-day intensive risk management course, Understanding and Managing the Risks in Seniors Housing and Care, they presented current case studies and strategies to 25 attendees, providing them with real-world experiences and strategies that can have an important impact on improving quality, resident care, and net operating income.

Ron Tinsley joins Larson Allen's health care team in Charlotte, N.C., as a principal. Tinsley will specialize in strategic long-range planning and market and financial feasibility studies.

Joan Clyne has been appointed executive director of Sterling Glen of Bay Shore, N.Y., an assisted living senior residence. Clyne formerly served as the residence's personal care director. As executive director, Clyne is responsible for overseeing all aspects of this community, including overall resident satisfaction.

Jack Avedisian, a veteran sales professional with 25 years of experience, has been named marketing representative for The Carlisle Naples, a luxury rental resort-style seniors living community. He also serves as liaison between prospective residents and the community, which is owned and operated by Senior Resource Group.
